

Oversteps News 19

December 2011

Another beautiful new book was published by Oversteps last month: The Range-Finder's Field Glasses by Graham High (ISBN 978-1-906856-25-0). Graham will be known to some of you because he use to edit the British Haiku Society's journal, Blithe Spirit, and his publications include poetry, prose-poetry and haiku. He has also exhibited widely as a painter and sculptor, and worked at the Natural History Museum Exhibitions Department as an Animatronic Model Designer in the film industry, working on over forty films ranging from 'Aliens' to the 'Harry Potter' series. He lives in London and Norfolk. Aspects of Graham's history are evident in the poems in this, his first collection: he has a true artist's eye and the ability to express large concepts in few words.

One of the first poets to be published by Oversteps was Giles Goodland, with his book Littoral. We are proud that Giles has gone on to achieve wide recognition and no small number of prizes and publications, and we are celebrating his successes by offering his early Oversteps book at half price (£3.50).

But it's Christmas, people are looking for appropriate presents for friends and relations, and the spirit of giving is in the air. So between now and Christmas we are offering to give Littoral away with any other purchase from our catalogue. Obviously this will have to carry the normal proviso of 'while stocks last', so do order your books in good time, to be in with a chance of a free copy of Giles Goodland's collection.

Both these books, along with a sample poem from each collection, can be seen on our website. They can be ordered either by post or on-line from www.overstepsbooks.com .

Oversteps poets continue to do well in competitions. It's hard to keep up with all the prize news coming in, but as a taster, the following have recently been successful in national and international competitions: A C Clarke, Elisabeth Rowe, Alwyn Marriage and Ann Kelley. All these, as well as information on readings by our poets, can be seen on the News page of our website: do look at it regularly, to keep up to date with all that is going on.

There will be several new Oversteps books out early in the new year, so watch out for new collections by A C Clarke, Ross Cogan, Ann Kelley and Diane Tang.

Wishing you a very happy Christmas, and lots of wonderful poetry in 2012
